Goals for internships usually fall into one of the following categories:

Skill Development: Internships may afford the chance to develop skills where you feel you could use some improvement. You may learn to use new software; improve your speaking and writing skills; learn the basics of accounting, etc.

Career Exploration: Many students explore career options through internships. An internship can be a way for you to test the waters and see if the career field you're interested in will be a good fit for you.

Academic Learning: Internships often provide an opportunity to apply what you've learned in classes to a real-world setting. You may sit in on court proceedings and learn how your constitutional law classes apply to real world legal situations. You might see how what you've been learning in art history classes comes alive when working in a museum.
