

Lunch in the Rath Program

Lunch-in-the-Rath program for advisees in their First Semester

The advisor/advisee lunch-in-the-Rath program, offered by the Office of the Dean of Studies, allows advisors to take his/her own advisees in their first semester at Oberlin to lunch at the Rathskeller one time during the fall semester. Students tell us that they find the chance to speak with their advisors informally extremely helpful.

The cashier will ask the advisor to complete a form including names of advisor and advisee and the amount of the bill. The Office of the Dean of Studies is billed directly for these lunches—advisors do not have to request reimbursement.
