Donna Russell, assistant director of career services, has worked at Oberlin College since 2000. Her roles with the Upward Bound (2000-2003) and Bonner Scholars (2004-2010) programs offered amazing opportunities to support underrepresented students and assist in their success. While serving as the Bonner Scholars Program’s program director, Donna decided to participate in the Social Justice Institute (2009) and Social Justice Mediation Training (2010). Social justice is integral to the Bonner Foundation’s mission, and multipartiality is essential for honest dialogue about race, class, etc. She thoroughly enjoyed learning and training alongside students as they shared experiences and knowledge about many of the topics covered. The mediation skills Donna learned have been instrumental in her work with Bonner Scholars and daily interactions with students. She is grateful for the opportunity to participate in OCDC.
