Hannah Santisi, a first-year double-degree student, is from Montclair, New Jersey. She plans on majoring in viola performance and sociology with a concentration in peace studies. This is her first year as an OCDC member. She first heard about OCDC from her admissions officer, who suggested the program to her. Upon entering Oberlin, she was excited to become an OCDC member. The Dialogue Center has definitely impacted her life. The training helped her understand the value of listening, and she uses the skills she learned from her mediation training every day. Hannah’s favorite OCDC memory is meeting YB when she visited Oberlin for “All Roads Lead to Oberlin.”
