Julia Sheppard is a first year student originally from Chicago. This is her first semester as a member of the Oberlin College Dialogue Center. She originally became involved with OCDC through the Social Justice Institute and has done all she can to stay involved since. The SJI and mediation training provided her with important skills on how to better communicate with others and to solve problems in a sensitive and collaborative way. The community, staff, and student bonds through OCDC will stick with her forever and continue to impact her education and experience at Oberlin College.
